GANA to Pair Fall Conference with GlassBuild America 2017

The National Glass Association (NGA) and the Glass Association of North America (GANA) are pleased to announce a new collaboration that brings the GANA Fall Conference to GlassBuild America, September 12-14, 2017 in Atlanta, GA.

“GANA and NGA have a common goal to increase learning and business opportunities for our respective members and attendees,” said Nicole Harris, NGA president & CEO. “GANA has been an association sponsor of GlassBuild America since its inception and we’re pleased to have them host their Fall Conference with us in 2017.”

“Moving our Fall Conference into a larger industry gathering such as GlassBuild America allows us to share the important technical resource work we do with the entire supply chain,” said GANA Board President Stanley Yee, Dow Corning. “We look forward to adding value to the industry through this new collaboration.”

GANA and NGA will continue to work together to provide impactful educational opportunities in the Express Learning Theatre on the GlassBuild tradeshow floor.

GlassBuild America is the industry’s largest trade showcase for innovative glass and fenestration technology, products and services in the Americas.

Further details and schedule information regarding these expanded offerings will be made available in 2017.

ABOUT NGA

Founded in 1948, the National Glass Association (NGA), www.glass.org, is the largest trade association serving the architectural glass and metals industry, and represents the interests of glazing contractors, glass retailers, glass fabricators, primary glass manufacturers and architects. The NGA provides education and training programs and services for its member companies and keeps them informed through the Glass Magazine and Window & Door family of print and electronic publications. The NGA\WDDA also produces the industry’s largest annual trade show in the Americas, GlassBuild America, and hosts the Glazing Executives Forum and Window & Door Dealer Days, bringing together thousands of industry professionals to help them build more profitable businesses.

ABOUT GANA

The Glass Association of North America (GANA), www.glasswebsite.com, provides a forum for exchanging information and ideas to stay relevant in the constantly changing glass and glazing industry. GANA is a progressive, innovative association where pride and enthusiasm for a career in architectural glass and glazing is fostered through educational events, technical resource development and relationship-building opportunities.
